VOL. XXXVI

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1914.

No. 59

Editorial Comments.

A movement is on foot to pave the principal streets of Cynthiana,

Barges began passing through the Panama canal May 10, from ocean to ocean.

Frank K. Wylie, the new postmaster at Princeton, will assume his duties May 20.

Max Frepte, a traveling man from Louisville, was found dead in bed in an Owensboro hotel.

The fall of Tampico simplifies the situation. Huerta will soon be a factor not to be reckoned with.

"Possum Hunters" scraped the plant beds of Roy Yewell and Massie Bros. in Daviess county, ruining 1,500 yards of beds.

The Court of Appeals has held void sections of the act of March 26, 1908, providing for sending juvenile criminals to the school of reform.

Gov. McCreary has designated Judge Birkhead, of Owensboro, to preside over the Henderson court for Judge Henson, who is a candidate for Congress.

Senator Bradley has looked the situation over and decided not to run for re-election. He says his health will not permit him to make the strenuous campaign necessary.

The fire companies recently doing business in Kentucky have arranged to bring a suit in Frankfort next week to test the constitutionality of the new insurance law to become effective June 15.

The grand jury at Evansville has returned an indictment against Clyde White, 20, of Morganfield, Ky., charging first degree murder. It is alleged White shot and killed Hillis Young, 31, two weeks ago in a quarrel over Young's wife.

There are six candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Tennessee. Thos. C. Rye carried Nashville and appears to be the leading candidate. It is time the Democrats of Tennessee were getting together to redeem the State.

Two Christian county women, who have lived with their husbands for more than a generation, are this week suing them for divorces. When people have been married that long is it not better to worry along with each other to the end?

News has reached Washington that Gen. Pena, one of the highest ranking officers in the Mexican army, has been placed in command of Huerta's forces near Vera Cruz, superseding Gen. Maas. Some officials attach special significance to the move.

The war story in pictures—nine pages of them—supplemented by a sapient editorial by H. H. Windsor, is a strong feature of the June Popular Mechanics Magazine. The views are nearly all reproductions of actual photographs that press home a thousand details which would have been lost in the mere recounting of events and incidents.

The city of Hopkinsville will pass into the third class June 15 and some very radical changes will take place in the city's charter. One change will be that the council will consist of 12 members and every member of the present council will be necessary to make a quorum or transact any business. All policemen will be appointed by the Mayor and approved by the council.

The drift towards the union of the various christian denominations in closer bonds, found new expression in the great Southern Baptist Convention at Nashville this week. The following resolution was adopted: "This convention rejoices in the many evidences of increasing interest in Christian union among Christian people everywhere. We are also in hearty accord with every movement and cause in which Christians of every name may take part without doing violence to the sacred mandates of conscience and without impairing their sense of loyalty to Christ."

BAPTISTS AT NASHVILLE

Declare In Favor of National Prohibition And Will Employ Agent.

INTO THE MISSION FIELD.

Rev. John Mein, One of Nine New Foreign Missionaries Introduced.

Nashville, Tenn., May 15.—The Southern Baptist convention Thursday went on record as favoring national prohibition, and authorized the employment of an agent to do educational work in the interest of the movement.

Denominational control over its Sunday School lesson courses also was decided upon by the convention, which adopted the report of the Sunday School Lesson Committee.

Routine committee reports and an address of welcome by Mrs. Ben W. Hooper, wife of the Governor of Tennessee, occupied the greater part of the sessions of the Woman's Mission Union, which is meeting simultaneously with the convention. The union also authorized the sale of the Margaret Home for Children of Missionaries located at Greenville, S. C., which has been maintained by the organization for ten years.

A great change in the Sunday School lesson situation among all denominations was said to have taken place in the report of the special committee on that subject, which was presented by Dr. I. J. Van Ness, of Nashville.

In view of the changed conditions the committee asked that the convention authorize it to resume full responsibility for the Sunday School courses of the denomination. By the adoption of the report the committee was given this power. While the committee probably will work in cooperation with the newly formed International Lesson Committee, it will be free to accept or reject the present.

P'POOL REIT

Hopkinsville Boy Marries Lady Of The West.

Leslie P'Pool, of this city, and Miss Gertrude Reit, of Emporia, Kansas, were united in marriage in St. Louis, Tuesday. The wedding occurred at Hotel Jefferson and Dr. J. W. Lee, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, St. Louis, performed the ceremony.

Mr. P'Pool spent several weeks in Los Angeles, Calif., last summer and it was at that place that he met the young lady who was in that city on a visit.

The bride is a member of a prominent family of Emporia and is an accomplished lady, with a host of friends in her home city.

Mr. P'Pool is a son of Mr. W. A. P'Pool and is a popular young business man of this place.

The couple arrived here Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and were driven to the residence of the groom's parents, just southwest of the city, where they will reside for the present.

Written By A Comrade.

Mr. John H. Pattillo died at his home near Bennettstown, May 12, in his seventy-fourth year, after a lingering illness as the result of a paralytic stroke sustained several years ago.

Mr. Pattillo came to Christian county from Mecklenburg county, Va., in the seventies. Soon after coming here, he was married to Miss Lydia Barbee, of Christian county.

His widow and several children survive him. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and his pastor, Rev. J. C. Tate, conducted his funeral services, and he was laid to rest in the old Brame burying ground, on the farm of Mr. J. R. Dickerson, near Bennettstown.

Mr. Pattillo was a gallant Confederate soldier, being a member of Company A, 6th Virginia regiment, Hutton's brigade, Pickett's division, Longstreet's corps.

Mr. Pattillo was in Pickett's charge at the battle of Gettysburg, where he sustained a wound upon the head from a fragment of a shell. He was one of the bravest of men, kind and considerate of all, and happy in his home life, where he will be sadly missed.

In Mexico.

When gentlemen greet each other they embrace and pat each other on the back.

Ladies kiss each other on both cheeks at both meeting and parting.

Everybody shakes hands with everybody on all possible occasions.

Sons kiss their mothers' and grandmothers' hands, and often their fathers'.

The politeness of Mexican servants is proverbial, and their voices are soft and pleasing.

Children wear mourning in Mexico, young girls in their teens wearing all-black costumes, and little girls of all sizes wearing white dresses with black ribbon sashes, and hats trimmed with black.

On entering a street car or other vehicle or when about to be seated there is a repeated exchange of Goston and Alphonse "you firsts" between the seniors.

The seat of honor in a Mexican home is the sofa, beside the hostess. A caller should not take that seat unless specially invited.

A cigar is lighted before being presented to a friend.

The peon men are obliged to wear large, heavy straw hats to protect their heads from the tropical sun, but the peon women have gone bare-headed for centuries.

Clerks in the stores and shops of all kinds smoke while waiting upon customers.

The newcomer must make the first call, and the "old settle's'r" can do as they please about returning it.—Kansas City Star.

OPPOSES S. H. CROSSLAND FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Attorney General Thinks Paducah Man's Age Too Advanced For Job.

Washington, May 15.—Samuel H. Crossland, of Paducah, will not be appointed United States District Attorney for the Western District of Kentucky because of his age. This was definitely determined when Attorney General Reynolds told Senator James that he was unwilling to endorse the candidacy of anyone recommended for a district attorneyship whose age exceeded 60 years, the prescribed limit. Mr. Crossland is 65 years old.

Senator James said that he had made up his mind whom he would recommend for the position, but that he was not yet ready to make the announcement.

Former Representative Charles K. Wheeler, Mr. Crossland and Judge William Reed, of Paducah; former Lieut. Gov. William P. Thorne, of Eminence, and the Rev. Dr. Sive, of Paris, called at the White House Wednesday. They were introduced to the President by Senator James.

DIVORCE SUIT

Filed By Mrs. Dukes Against Her Husband.

Mrs. Jennie B. Dukes has filed suit for divorce from her husband, John F. Dukes. Plaintiff recites in her petition that she and her husband were married thirty-seven years ago and that he abandoned her more than a year ago. She charges unkindness on the part of defendant and failure to provide. In addition to a divorce she prays for the custody of her two children and $3,000 alimony.

On her statement that she feared her husband would dispose of his property an attachment was issued to prevent such action until the matter is disposed of in court.

LONG CONTEST IS ENDED.

G. A. Jett and Hamilton Alexander Each Tipped At One Time.

Washington, May 15.—Representative A. O. Stanley recommended today the appointment of Ernest J. Howell to be postmaster of Owensboro. In selecting Mr. Stanley solved a troublesome patronage problem. Among the candidates for the postmastership was G. A. Jett. Mr. Howell is a Democratic committeeman of Daviess county and is a warm personal friend of Mr. Stanley. His nomination is expected to be sent to the senate in a few days. Hamilton Alexander, a son-in-law of Ure Woodson, was tipped at one time

MR. ADCOCK'S WILL.

Probated In County Court Yesterday Morning.

The will of the late J. C. Adcock was probated in county court yesterday morning. To his wife, Ann F. Adcock, he bequeathed all of his personal property to be hers absolutely and he also left his farm of about forty acres near Striped bridge to her during her life. It is directed that at her death the farm goes to his daughter, Edna R. Butler, during her life or as long as she remains unmarried. His son, Samuel J. Adcock, is named in the instrument as executor, and he is empowered to sell the farm, if in his judgment he may better provide for the care of his mother or sister, the sum to be used to their maintenance. Should any part of the estate remain after the death of Mrs. Adcock or the marriage of Mrs. Butler, the executor is directed to convert same into money and divide it equally between the surviving children and grandchildren. The children are Mrs. Willie Wooldridge, Mrs. Sue Cravens, J. F. Adcock, Thomas A. Adcock, and Edna Butler. His grand children referred to are Carrie Johnson and Morgan Mason, children of a deceased daughter, Mattie, and Nell Mason, daughter of his deceased daughter, Virginia.

The will was written March 27, 1914, and was witnessed by W. A. Adcock and J. R. Knight.

RECENT MARVEL IS THE KINETOPHONE

Wizard Edison Still Adding to His Wonder Record of Inventions.

VOCAL ACCESSORY TO MOVIES

Latest Idea in This Line Has Been Made an Unqualified Success—Will Allow Opera to Be Presented—Other News of Photo-Plays.

Thomas A. Edison, whose inventions have for more than a third of a century held the world breathless and made the "Tales of the Arabian Nights" seem commonplace by comparison, has surpassed his own wonder record of electric light, phonograph, fluoroscope, Kinetoscope and countless other marvels by his latest magical invention—the kinetophone.

Youngest of all the wonderful children of that wonderful brain, but requiring the most of mechanical ingenuity, the most of long sustained and determined effort, it seems destined most of all to preserve for him his title of "The Wizard of Menlo Park."

What is a kinetophone, anyhow? That was the question that bothered your correspondent, hearing vague rumor of this new Edison wonder and proceeding to investigate it. He knew it had something to do with "making the movies talk," but he had seen of recent years many pitiful failures of phonographic and vocal accessories striving to accomplish this for these same "movies."

Just then there burst upon the ear the opening strains of "Il Trovatore." Not in the harsh, metallic timbre of the phonograph, but clean, clear and resonant, as from an orchestra, many-toned and perfectly balanced. The next instant there flashed upon the screen the opening scene of the great opera. From the crowded stage came the full-throated voices of the singers, blended in perfect harmony with the orchestra.

Rising, swelling and sinking in cadence, all in faultless rhythm with every motion and gesture of those picture singers, the mingled music of voice and orchestra floated forth from that picture stage in an illusion that held the visitor spellbound. Not a false or a harsh note! Not a single ill-timed movement, nor a belated gesture from a single one of all that life-like throng, gathered there on the phantom stage; but all in perfect keeping—perfect beyond perfection—with the strains of voices and instruments!

"Marvelous!" whispered the visitor to himself. "I'll have to get something stronger than that weak word to tell this tale!"

Sentiment and Humor at Movies. "Where we went last night," said a frequenter of moving picture shows, "there was a scene in one of the films showing a man and a girl, young lovers, kissing. She was a pretty girl and he was a fine, manly young fellow, and of course everybody was deeply interested in the picture. But at the precise instant that the lovers' lips met some man in the audience exploded with a gigantic sneeze, whereat the whole house blew up with spontaneous hilarious laughter.

In this picture scene there was a third figure, that of a man who had seen the lovers meeting and who when he saw them kiss turned away from them to smile. He was, to be sure, smiling over the lovers; but as he looked out on the house at this moment with that smile on his face he seemed like a real man smiling in apprehension of what had just happened in the audience. At the sight of his smiling face the audience again blew up. But of course the pictures kept on moving all the time, and in half a minute the audience had once more settled down to look on again at the pictures in the usual quiet."

Scenes Carefully Rehearsed.

In the preparation of a moving picture drama each scene is taken up separately, discussed and rehearsed, and when it appears that the performers are thoroughly conversant with the situations and the action, the camera is put in operation, and the scene is photographed. The producer is heard prompting the performers, and if a single error occurs, the entire scene must again be rehearsed and taken over. This is continued until a satisfactory scene is taken.

All film manufacturing plants are thoroughly equipped with complete wardrobes for all occasions, and have their own carpenters who put up an interior or an exterior setting at a moment's notice, only to pull it down again in a jiffy to make room for another one, perhaps more elaborate and pretentious.

After the picture is taken the film is ready to be developed and is turned over to that department where the invisible images are made to show definite form and the first results are seen in the shape of the negative. After thorough washing and drying the sections are assembled; then the negative is turned over to the printing department, and there the picture is completed ready to be shown to the public. Titles are made and all imperfections are eradicated. Then the photo play is released.

Appeal to the Charitable.

And now moving pictures have been pressed into service as a means of making people charitable.

For a long time the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities has been puzzled as to how to interest non-contributors to its many charitable activities. The members of the federation felt sure that many people in Brooklyn would become willing donors if only some idea of the organization's work could be placed before them in a striking and convincing form. At last Benjamin H. Namin, president of the federation, and Max Ahelman, assistant secretary, hit upon moving pictures as the solution of the problem. Together they have written a picture play entitled "How the Jews Care for Their Poor," which is intended as a direct appeal to those who have money to spare, even if it be only in small quantities, to loosen their purse strings for the benefit of their less fortunate fellow-beings. The play is to be produced in the near future by the federation. This is the first time that a film story has been used as a means of propaganda in communal charitable work.

Films Show How to Cast Ballot.

As the result of a suffrage law that has just gone into effect, the total electorate in Italy has been increased from four millions to eight or nine millions, and the number of qualified voters in one province alone, that of Catania, has advanced from 41,000 to 140,000. The task of educating this large number of new voters in the method of casting their votes properly is a big one, owing to the fact that few if any of them have ever before exercised the suffrage. To meet this condition moving-picture theaters throughout the district, as well as some of the political organizations, are running films showing the procedure to be followed. This means of educating the public has so favorably received that similar methods are likely to be adopted for teaching the elements of domestic and personal hygiene.—Popular Mechanics.

Child's Quick Recognition.

Many unusual things happen in the lives of the photo players. Ruth Stonehouse, a well-known motion picture artist, was returning to her hotel after a day of work in the studio. She entered a street car and seated herself comfortably across the aisle from a child about six years old. The youngster gazed at Ruth in a bewildering way and finally let out a shriek that could be heard a block. "Mother!" the child cried, "that's the girl that was frozen to death in the picture last night," and sure enough it was. Ruth was embarrassed for a few minutes but finally got up, took the child in her arms and told her to come to the studio some day and see her work. The child promised to do so.

Educate Child Actors.

Motion pictures have been used in schools, but a school for children appearing in motion pictures is the newest educational development of the "movies." Many children from New York are employed in Hollywood, Cal., in the studio of a film company, and that their education and that of the children associated with them may not be neglected the company is building a schoolhouse near the studio. It will be conducted as a branch of the public schools of Los Angeles, but will be supported by the film company.

Millions See Pictures Daily.

It is not generally known that over 7,000,000 people daily attend motion picture performances.

Chicago Takes to the "Movies."

Chicago has over 600 photo-play takers catering to 700,000 and in patronage daily.

MUST BEAR THE HALLMARKS

No Longer Possible to Sell Substitutes for Platinum in France as the Genuine Article.

Owing to the increasing price of platinum, new alloys of gold called "white gold" and "palladium gold" have lately come into use as a substitute for platinum in the manufacture of jewelry. To avoid the confusion of these alloys with pure platinum work three new stamps, or hallmarks, have been created by a recent French decree for use in making jewelry that is composed entirely or in part of platinum.

One of the new hallmarks, a dog's head, is used to stamp work of home manufacture which is to be sold in France; another, the head of a young girl, denotes work of home manufacture intended for exportation; and a mask designates imported goods. In combinations of platinum and white gold the proper stamps must be used to indicate the various metals.

HAPPINESS.

I used to think it was great to disregard happiness, to press to a high goal, careless, disdainful of it. But now I see that there is nothing so great as to be capable of happiness—to pluck it out of each moment, and, whatever happens, to find that one can ride as gay and buoyant on the angry, menacing, tumultuous waves of life as on those that glide and glitter under a clear sky; that it is not defeat and wretchedness which come out of the storms of adversity, but strength and calmness.—Anne Gilchrist.

GIRL SWallows PENKNIFE.

A bo'ness girl has just had a remarkable escape from death. She accidentally swallowed a small penknife, the blade of which was open. She was removed to Edinburgh Royal Infirmary, the knife was located by means of the X-rays, an operation was then performed, and the surgeon with some difficulty was able to remove the knife. The patient is now making rapid progress towards recovery.

HEIDELBERG TUN IS SECOND

California Has a Larger Cask Than the Long-Celebrated One in Germany.

A cask recently constructed for a California firm has put the famous tun of Heidelberg in the background. It holds 9,000 gallons and is made of California redwood throughout and the selection of timber and the making required two years. Eleven out of twelve trees were rejected as unsuitable. Two entire trains of wagons were necessary to convey the selected timber to the vineyard.

The hoops of the cask, which are of the finest steel, weigh 18 tons, while the completed cask is 38 feet high and 78 feet in circumference and large enough to form a three-story house, where 300 persons could dine in comfort. This enormous reservoir would, if its contents were placed in ordinary casks, require 30 wagons for its transport and the contents represent a value of a million dollars.

TRICK OF HIDING THE BALL.

Supporting the ancient contention that there is nothing new under the sun comes a statement from the south that a hidden ball trick in football was not new or the child of Glenn Warner's brain when his Carlsbad Indian eleven sprang the trick on Harvard several years ago.

According to a player in the game, the trick of hiding a football under a player's jersey was first tried in the Auburn-Vanderbilt contest in 1895. In telling of the origin of this football play, he said recently:

"This play was first used in the Auburn-Vanderbilt game in 1895, which was played in a sea of mud and a driving rain, and by the use of this trick I succeeded in getting away for a 60-yard run and a touchdown, which, by the way, was the only touchdown we made in the game and the only touchdown I scored during my football career."

There is urgent need at this time for summer clothing. Calls have come from a number of persons who are in need of such help. Anyone desiring to contribute to this worthy cause may leave bundles of clothing at our office in the county building (next court house). For further information call 839.

If you could go with the Agent to the houses of these objects of charity and see the conditions in which they live and see the brave efforts of the mothers to educate their children, in spite of their environments, to be a credit to them and to the good people of their own city to better their conditions, you would gladly do anything in your power to relieve the distress. If you are a member of the Associated Charities you are interested in any urgent need brought to your attention. If you are not a member you will be glad to learn that any cash contribution entitles you to membership. If you want to give clothing, you probably have garments your children have outgrown, which you will be glad to give to some child, or clothing of your own which will be useful to some one else. Bedding will be appreciated by those in whose families there is sickness. Remember, people who have nothing will be glad to get what you would otherwise throw away as useless.

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

NOTICE

Of Election Of A School Trustee.

I have remained on the county board of Education long enough to be satisfied that the present county Superintendent, Prof. L E Foster, will endeavor without prejudice or favoritism to conduct the educational interest of the county in a manner insuring the hearty support and approbation of practically all interested in better schools for our children. I, therefore, do not deem it necessary to remain on the county board longer than August. I would beg all the patrons and friends of Newstead school to meet me at the school house on Saturday, May 23, between the hours of two and three o'clock p. m., and elect some one to serve out my unexpired term of one year, from Sep. 1, 1914, to Sep. 1, 1915, as trustee of sub-district No. 1, division No. 5.

Wider Skirts Have Arrived.

In the June Woman's Home Companion Grace Margaret Gould, fashion editor of the publication, writes an article entitled "Skirts Flare Out—Behold the Pantalette!" in which she comments on the pantalette of to-day and yesterday and other new French fashion frivolities. Following is an extract:

"The big new fashion act to consider is that wider skirts have definitely arrived in Paris. It is an old, old trick of fashion that the moment her devotees have accommodated themselves to one of her whims, she quickly introduces another. Women have been struggling for a long time to learn to manage along without tucking on their heads. Now, with wider skirts, will come the stride."

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable for making finest and most economical food.

Forest Notes.

Angora goats have been used with profit to keep fire lines clear of inflammable vegetation on national forests in California.

Last year the fire loss on the Canadian timber reserves was the smallest ever known, only one-fiftieth of one per cent of the area being burned over.

Zentaro Kawase, professor of forestry at the imperial university of Tokio, Japan, has been making a tour of the national forests of this country to learn the government's methods of selling timber and of re-storation.

More than 858,000 young trees are being set out this spring on national forests in Utah and Southern Idaho, and the season is reported as particularly favorable to their successful growth.

Armstrong Lake, within the Bear-tooth national forest, Montana, is said to rival the famed Lake Louise of the Canadian Rockies. It lies at an elevation of 7,000 feet surrounded by towering mountains. A good road which can be traveled in half a day by automobile connects it with the railroad at Billings. A rustic hotel has recently been completed, and many trails make the surrounding region accessible.

The Latest Pantalettes Not Like Grandma's.

In the June Woman's Home Companion Grace Margaret Gould, fashion editor of that periodical, writes an article entitled "Skirts Flare Out—Behold the Pantalette!" in which she comments on the pantalettes of to-day and yesterday and other new French fashion frivolities. Following is an extract:

"Yes, Grandmamma did wear pantalettes and now Granddaughter has her modern critical eye upon them.

"Premet of Paris, who has so quickly forged ahead into fashionable favor, say, 'Pantalettes are not only to be worn but shown.'

"But let me tell you that the new French pantalettes in this up-to-date age are as far removed from the pantalettes of the remote and romantic days of long ago as champagne is from cambric tea.

"Grandmamma certainly in her giddiest days would never have recognized these fizzy, etherealized creations.

"Hers were of the prudent and substantial sort, fulfilling to the letter the now lost mission of clothes to be a covering, and they were only to be exposed on the most secluded of clothes-lines.

"To describe the pantalettes that Premet shows—those which belong to the glaring Now—is to tell quite a different story.

"The Paris dress openings in their display of spring and summer gowns showed many novelties, but Premet's costumes brought forth the most gashes and "Oohs!" Such filmy, frilly, perky pantalettes, and peeping out with no suggestion of timidity from actual hoop skirts!

"Then there were other pantalettes, direct descendants of the modern tango garter, created just for the dance. In fact, the return of the pantalette to Paris is not so much the revival of an old quaint fashion as it is a dress outcome of the dance craze. From the tango garter it is only a light and airy step to the tango pantalette and the next step after—and this is a stride—is the manish trouser to be worn with the tailored suit.

"And right here let me say that the new tailored skirt, slit at the sides, and worn with trousers of the same fabric, is a strong swing toward decency.

The Gatun Locks.

A vessel passing through the locks of the Panama Canal will have all its movements controlled in much the same manner that the movements of a train are controlled in entering a complicated railroad terminal. At Gatun, Pedro Miguel and Miraflores, an operator standing before a control board will open and close the gates, fill and empty the lock chambers, and perform every other operation necessary for letting a ship through, simply by throwing a succession of switches, and will know at any instant just what is happening in the locks without ever having to look beyond the indications shown on the board before him. Furthermore, the mechanism is so interlocked that it will be impossible for him to set any machine in motion except in the proper order and at the proper time. The triple flight of locks at Gatun extends for a distance of 6,200 ft., while the operating machinery is scattered over about 4,000 ft. of this distance. This is all controlled from a miniature board, 64 ft. long, which is virtually a miniature of the locks and the operating machinery, and is located in an operating tower at the foot of the upper flight of locks. A picture of this wonderful control board appears in the June Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Petticoats For Thin Frocks.

In the "Exchange" department of the June Woman's Home Companion—a department devoted to practical household suggestion contributed by readers—a California woman makes the following suggestion about petticoats for thin frocks:

"If you will make yourself a white sateen petticoat to wear under your thin dresses, you will not be mortified by having your worst enemy walk up to you with a smile and say, 'My dear, I can see right through you.' Besides being non-transparent, white sateen is easy to wash."

Shop Talking Among Actors.

In "The Diary of a Beauty," published in the June Woman's Home Companion appears the following:

"The stage world is world in itself, and it is too absorbing, if it absorbs at all, to leave much interest for anything else. I find that stage people live for the stage, talk the stage, eat, sleep and dream of the stage."

FARMING FOR FURBreeding of Foxes and Skunks for Their Pelts.Young industry to be of great practical importance and promises to give results of interest to philosophical naturalists.

The young industry of fur farming is not only likely to be of great practical importance, but, like all other practically conducted zoological pursuits, is promising to give results of interest to the philosophical naturalists. It so happens, for instance, says the London Standard, that the two favorite animals with the fur farmer—the fox and the skunk, present striking variations in their fur, and the selection of such varieties to produce the most valuable type has already furnished results of scientific value. The silver fox, for instance, is only a color variety of the red fox, and no doubt it is to the natural desire to increase the numbers of this valued "freak" that the initiation of fox farming is due. Experiment has proved that silver foxes, like other varieties of color in more familiar animals, are amenable to selective breeding; as a rule, a pair of silvers will produce silver young, though some reversion to the ancestral red coat must be always looked for, at any rate during the first few generations of breeding.

But it is not necessary to start with a pair of silvers to produce silver offsprings; one breeder raised from a silver male and a red vixen a litter of five pups, two only of which were red, one silver and two "cross," a term which will be explained directly. The silver animal was bred to another—uncolored—silver and produced two "cross" pups and one of its own color. This last silver became the parent of seven pups, all of them silvers. The "cross" fox, which is evidently the intermediate form between the typical red and the valued silver and black types, is a particolored animal, red on the body and black on the face, limbs and part of the brush. It is thus the exact opposite of a black and tan dog, since in such an animal as the most casual observer knows, the black is found on the trunk and the tan on the face and limbs.

It seems curious that two animals so nearly related as the fox and the dog should vary in such different directions; but the fact is not unprecedented, a very similar case being found in two well known birds which are similarly related. These are the pheasant and the guinea fowl, birds of the same family, and liable to produce pied varieties; but in a pied pheasant it will be noted that the white feathers are mostly confined to the upper parts, while in a pied guinea fowl it is the under parts that are white.

Cases like this should make us cautious in attributing special significance to the appearance of white on the upper parts of certain wild animals, abnormal though it may seem. Thus, the skunk, for the most part a black animal, shows white on the upper parts, as a rule, and this is supposed to act as a warning to other animals to beware of the "essence peddler." But this white is variable in extent, and one of the objects of the skunk farmer is to get rid of it as much as possible, skunk skins being graded, other things being equal, on their blackness. It is found that by using black males and females with only a small amount of white, from thirty to seventy-five per cent of the produce will come black, or first quality, though, of course, a certain amount of reversion must be reckoned with.

The fact that owls have to be guarded against as serious enemies by the skunk raiser shows that the white streak on the skunk's head and back is probably purely incidental, and has no "warning" significance. It may proclaim to the puma and lynx the wolf and fox, that the skunk is an animal better left alone, but this does not do the malodorous little beast much good if his snowy badge only gives him away to his far more formidable feathered foe, which, hunting on silent wing above, has him at such a deadly disadvantage, besides being less sensitive to stinks than are the mammalian carnivores. Familiar as we are with the depredations of cats, weasels and foxes on birds, we are apt to forget that the birds of prey "get their own back" with interest, and all theories of coloration and its uses must take into account this fact: the skunk would probably be better off if he were protected rather than advertised by his coat, and his showy pied livery is quite possibly rather a disadvantage than otherwise.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

WORKING ROADS WHEN MOIST

More Labor is Required When Highways Are Dry—Use Road Machine When Soil Is Soft.

It is a great mistake to put off working roads until August or September. The roads should be worked when the soil is damp, so as to make the soil bake when it dries out. If the roads are worked when they are dry, it takes more power to draw the machine and, besides, dry earth and dust retain moisture and quickly rut after rains. The use of clods, sods, weeds or vegetable matter in building earth roads should be avoided because they also retain moisture.

If the working of the roads is deferred until the latter part of the summer when the surface is baked dry and hard, they are not only difficult to work, but the work is unsatisfactory when done. Earth which is loose and dry will remain dusty as long as the dry weather lasts, and then turn to mud as the rains begin. By using the road machine in the spring while the soil is soft and damp, the surface is more easily shaped and soon packs down into a dry, hard crust, which is less liable to become dusty in summer and muddy in winter.

Repairs to roads should be made when needed, and not once a year after crops are laid by. Because of its simplicity, efficiency and cheapness, the split-log drag or some similar device is destined to come into more and more general use. With the drag properly built and its use well understood, the maintenance of earth and gravel roads becomes a simple and inexpensive matter. Care should be taken to make the log so light that one man can lift it with ease. The log should be from seven to ten feet long, and from eight to ten inches in diameter. It should be split carefully as near the center as possible and the heaviest and best slab chosen for the front. When the soil is moist, but not sticky, the drag does the best work. The road will hake if the drag is used on it when it is wet. If the roadway is full of holes or hardly rutted the drag should be used once when the road is soft and slushy.

Stone wear should be disposed of quickly before it has had time to penetrate deeply into the surface of the road. This can be done by giving the road a crown or slope from the center to the sides. For an earth road which is 24 feet wide the center should be less than six inches nor more than twelve inches higher than the outer edge of the shoulder. The narrow road which is high in the middle will become rutted almost as quickly as one which is too flat, for the reason that on a narrow road all the traffic is forced to use only a narrow strip. Shoulder are often formed on both sides of the road, which prevent storm water from flowing into the side ditches, resulting in the ruts and softening the roadway. These ruts and shoulders should be entirely eliminated with a road machine or split-log drag.

The width of the earth road will depend on the traffic. As a rule, twenty-five or thirty feet from ditch to ditch is sufficient if the road is properly crowned. Ordinarily the only ditches needed are those made with the road machine, which are wide and shallow.

MANY BAD ILLINOIS ROADS

Average Time of Two and One-Half Months in Each Year Highways are Unusable.

If you want to know how badly Illinois needs good roads, ask the rural mail carriers. There are nearly three thousand of them in the state, their routes over 66,6 miles of road, and they are out every working day in the year. Whether the subject is roads, the rural mail carrier knows what he is talking about.

Evidence collected from 2,724 rural mail carriers shows that most highways of Illinois derive the name of trails, rather than roads.

In one county, for early thirty days in each year, the carriers are unable to make their runs.

In the whole state, an average time of two and one-half months in each year, the country roads are unusable for a load of one-and-one-half tons, says the Chicago Journal. In some counties, country roads are unusable for such a load longer than one-third of the year.

Such a condition is intolerable. It leaves a toll on every farm and on everyone who uses farm roads. It also increases the cost of living and cuts down the rewards of labor.

Illinois must be pulled out of the mud. The first step in the work is to use convict labor to prepare material to make roads, instead of ditches.

FAIRME STOCK

WATER REQUIRED BY SHEEP

Costs More and More to Produce Meal as Moisture Decreases and Dry Matter Increases.

Experiments have shown that cattle given plenty of water with their pasture contained more moisture and less dry matter than did the carcasses of cattle given pasture, but no additional moisture. It is a generally accepted principle of feeding that it costs more and more to produce meat as the moisture decreases and the dry matter increases. From this we are able to deduce the fact that it costs less to grow the steers that have plenty of water, and so made watery carcasses than it did to grow steers that had no water other than in their food and produced a dry carcass.

What is true in the cases of steers would hold equally true with sheep. Sheep given plenty of water will produce mutton more cheaply than will those deprived of it. Muscle expansion will be more active in the one case than in the other, and that is another reason why mutton production would be cheaper.

There is considerable water in any of the pasture crops that sheep eat, and they get still more moisture from the dew that collects on the grass blades in early morning and late evening; but from these two sources, while it gets enough water to keep it alive, a sheep still does not get enough to keep it in the very best growing condition nor to keep all its bodily processes going on in the most effective manner possible.

There is not an organ in the body that can function properly without water to aid it. Being one of the chief constituents of blood, water is carried to every part of the system, and not alone helps it in getting its nourishment, but also in ridding it of impurities. It is obvious that a large amount of water must be necessary to keep the sheep doing well. Enough is not got with the food and this amount should be supplemented by all the sheep will drink when given constant access to it.

FEEDING TROUGH FOR SWINE

Heretofore Troublesome Task Made Easy By Placing Receptacle Outside of Fence.

The feeding of hogs in a trough is always a troublesome task, as the hogs will get in the way of the food if it is in liquid form, and prevent the trough from filling evenly. One farmer overcame this difficulty by setting the trough on the outside of the fence and hanging a panel of the fence so that the bottom would swing outward. A stop is placed at each end to hold the panel in place while the food is poured in the trough. The stops are also used to prevent the panel from being pushed farther than the outside of the trough. The food is placed in the trough evenly and then the stops are raised and lowered to catch on the outside edge of the trough. The trough should be secured to the fence post at each end.

RESTOCKING THE HOG HERD

All Animals Passing Through Outbreak of Cholera Can Be Regarded as Permanently Immune.

Farmers who have lost all or part of their hogs from cholera are asking for advice as to the best way of restocking their herds. In this connection there are a number of things to be kept in mind. All hogs that pass through an outbreak unless the serum treatment is employed. In herds treated with serum, provided there were undoubted cases of cholera prevalent, all hogs surviving can be reasonably regarded as being immune. Close association with sick hogs at the time of treatment is very essential.

Where it is desired to bring new hogs into the herd they should be vaccinated before or at the time they are placed on the infected premises. Some breeders are selling brood sows and boars guaranteed immune to cholera.

Wasteful Practise.

To supply more than will be eaten at once is not only wasteful but it encourages the animal to become dainty regarding its food; which bad habit in the end often prevents eating a proper quantity.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 9.

The Man Who Has Put Hopkinsville On The Music Map.

Harry L. Lebkuecher was born in Schenectady, N. Y., in 1876 and, as his name indicates, is of German descent. His father was Frank Lebkuecher and in Harry's childhood the family moved to Illinois and in 1890 came to Hopkinsville, the son at that time being 14 years of age. He was brought up in the business of manufacturing cigars, which he still follows. As a boy, he developed remarkable musical talent and when quite a young man he got together the musicians of the city and organized ized a band of ten pieces and trained them at night until the band became an established success. It improved from year to year, being known as "Lebkuecher's Band," until 1911 when it became a military band attached to the Third Kentucky Regiment and has since been called the "Third Regiment Band." Under the capable and intelligent direction of its leader, the band has reached a high state of efficiency and now comprises 24 pieces, and is conceded to be the finest musical organization in Kentucky. In the encampment of 1911 at O'Rell, Ky., the band furnished the music for the successive encampments of all three of the Kentucky Regiments. Mr. Lebkuecher now fills engagements not only all over Western Kentucky, but is frequently called to other states and to the larger cities.

Mr. Lebkuecher was married in Nov. 1899 and has an interesting family of two boys and two girls, now in school or under the school age. He lives in a beautiful new cottage on West Seventh street, built a few years ago. He represented his ward in the City Council in 1911-11. Although known as a Republican, he rose above politics in his public duties and made one of the most efficient councilmen his ward ever had, public-spirited, courageous, progressive and loyal to his people irrespective of party affiliations. Although the ward is normally Democratic by a large majority, he came within a few votes of being re-elected over a strong Democratic opponent in the general election of 1911.

As a business man, he has built up a prosperous and growing trade in the manufacture of fine cigars, using the best imported materials. His cigars are shipped far and wide and are favorites with the smoking public throughout the section of the country covered by the wholesale trade of Hopkinsville. His factory is located on Virginia street, corner of Eighth, and he employs a large force of workmen in supplying the demands of his rapidly increasing business.

In many respects Mr. Lebkuecher is a useful and prominent factor in the affairs of the city of his adoption, but it is as a musician that the people value him highest. He has "put Hopkinsville on the map" so far as being possessed of a first class musical organization is concerned and when the subject of music is raised "Leb" does not have to "blow his own horn." All Hopkinsville blows it for him.

ABOUT GOOSE FARMS.

The largest goose dealer in the world is William H. Firke, of Mansfield, Ill., says the Christian Herald.

Late in the summer of each year Mr. Firke's buyer spends several months in the hills of Kentucky and Tennessee, where goose raising is an important industry. There the geese are purchased, some here, some there, but scarcely ever in lots of more than a hundred. Sometimes the geese are assembled in places remote from a railroad and must be driven miles before they can be loaded. The driving is comparatively easy, but before the long march over the rough and rugged roads is started, the geese must be shod. Rough roads will even make a goose foot-sore. Shoeing geese is a simple matter to the goose raiser. The birds are driven over soft tar or pitch and then onto beds of fine sand. The sand and tar form a soothing mixture, which affords great protection to the feet on the long marches.

The goose magnate states that he makes more money from his geese in a few weeks than he does from his bank in a year. The average goose costs him about 70 cents, and later sells in New York City for $1.70. The feed of the bird during its stay on the farm costs about 30 cents, and the freight bill is 30 cents more leaving a profit of 50 cents on each bird; and Mr. Firke handled more than 14,000 geese last season.

Plenty of shelled corn and fresh water is the diet on which geese thrive. The first two weeks on the farm they are allowed to graze in the fields, but the final week they are kept closely housed and fed all the corn they will consume. Each of the houses has a concrete floor, is well lighted, has good ventilation and is connected with a farm watering system. They are not heated, as the geese, when protected from the weather, can withstand a temperature of twenty degrees below zero.

The Owensboro team with six straight victories to their credit opened the series here Thursday and met their first defeat. Lyman Johnson, once the pride of the Moguls, was on the slab and in good form, but somehow the Moguls landed on him and won by a score that would have been 4 to 2 except for some careless and over-confident playing in the last inning that let in a score with two men down. It was a pity to give the visitors their first setback, but it had to be done to get above the 500 point. The second game was played yesterday and the third is scheduled for to-day.

George Bleich has offered to "set-up" tickets to his picture show in Owensboro for the whole team if they take two out of three games here.

George Hancock, the lefthander, of Corydon, Ky., who was with Henderson a couple of years ago, has signed with Owensboro and joined that club here.

Bradshaw after refusing to report to Owensboro has been sold to the Salt Lake City club for $250. Seebach has been released outright by the Distillers.

Kentucky's Death Rate.

Kentucky has a population of 2,336,277 and during the year 1913, exclusive of still-births, there were 20,643 deaths, or 13 deaths per each 1,000, for the year.

The number of deaths per thousand and each year in the state varies but very little, and there are only a few states that have a smaller death rate than Kentucky. Nearly all of the eastern states have a larger death rate than Kentucky. Even the State of California, the greatest health resort, has a rate of over 14 to the 1,000.

Advertising on Correct Basis.

Lawrence, Kan., May 13.—"Sound advertising does not lead to the destruction of the saving instinct of the American people, nor to the reckless spending of their money. It leads to intelligent and rational spending."

This statement was made in a paper by Irvin S. Cobb, magazine writer, read at to-day's session of the National Newspaper Conference, in progress this week at the University of Kansas. Mr. Cobb's paper was prepared in answer of the question: "Is Advertising Destroying the Tariff of the Nation?"

Mr. Cobb said in his opinion no article, however widely advertised, could be forced on the readers of the newspapers and magazines unless it had merit. He said he did not believe newspapers made "subtle appeals" to their readers to spend money.

Addresses were made by Richard H. Wa'do, advertising manager of a New York magazine, and others.

Arrangement of Ballot.

(Mayfield Messenger.)

With the race for the democratic nomination for United States senator made up with Gov. Jas. B. McCleary, Congressman A. O. Stanley and former Gov. J. C. W. Beckham as starters in the August primary, it is interesting to note that if all three go to the post as starters arrangements of the names on the ballot will be different in the various congressional districts. Under the provisions of the state primary law, the names are to appear in alphabetical order in the First district and alternate in each succeeding congressional district. Under this arrangement the formation will be as follows. Beckham first, McCreary second and Stanley third in the First, Fourth, Seventh and Tenth districts; McCreary first, Stanley second and Beckham third in the Second and Fifth, Eighth and Eleventh districts; Stanley first, Beckham second and McCreary third in the Third, Sixth and Ninth districts.
